Telenor renews and expands contract with Arqiva

- Telenor has renewed Arqiva's contract to uplink three digital multiplexes onto Thor 5 delivering 30 DTH TV channels to Scandinavia

Telenor, the Norwegian owner and operator of the Thor satellites at 1 West, has renewed its contract with Arqiva for the uplinking of three digital multiplexes onto its Thor 5 satellite. This service, uplinked through Arqiva's Winchester Teleport, delivers over 30 DTH (Direct To Home) TV channels into Scandinavian markets.

Barrie Woolston, Commercial Director at Arqiva Satellite & Media, said: "We have a long relationship with Telenor and this continues to go from strength to strength. Arqiva's robust and reliable teleport infrastructure consistently delivers the highest levels of service, making us an obvious choice for companies, like Telenor, who demand the best on behalf of their customers."

Arqiva has the infrastructure and experience to help rights owners, programme makers and broadcasters to create and capture content, and to manage and deliver high-quality television around the world. Arqiva currently provides trusted management and delivery of over 400 standard and high definition TV channels worldwide.
